

What Does Scripture Say About Justice?

Throughout the Bible, scripture reveals God's will to do justice. The Hebrew prophets continually remind God's people, "...What does the Lord require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness, and to walk humbly with your God?" (Micah 6:8). The prophets give specific warning to those who seek only their own well-being and ignore the well-being of the marginalized and oppressed. Israel's failure to be just and righteous is clearly seen as disobedience to God and the reason for national decay and destruction.

Jesus frequently witnessed to the priority of the poor in the reign of God. He challenged the rich young ruler; he sharply criticized the hard-heartedness of religious leaders, and he taught that those who reached out to marginalized persons were serving him (Luke 18:18-25, Matthew 19:16-24 and Luke 10:25-37). In addition, Christ speaks of the accountability of nations to do justice in Matthew 25 and states, "Truly I tell you, just as you did it to one of the least of these who are members of my family, you did it to me."

An "advocate" is someone who pleads the cause of another. As people of faith, we are called to plead the cause of those who are bruised by the injustices of life.

The Rev. Brooke Newell is an ordained United Methodist clergy person, serving our five Presbyteries in this part-time position. She served as the Pastor of various United Methodist churches for 15 years before accepting the position of Advocacy Ministries Coordinator. She earned her Master of Divinity degree from Yale Divinity School in 1991. Since 2006, she has made her home in Glens Falls, NY. Please be in touch with Brooke, and in prayer for this ministry.

The Presbyterian United Nations Office

777 U.N. Plaza, 7th Floor
New York, NY 10017
(212) 697-4568

The Presbyterian U.N. Office represents the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) at the United Nations. Staff members help to equip Presbyterians for discipleship by training them to put their faith into action in the global arena. The Presbyterian U.N. Office also bears witness to Jesus Christ by advocating the concerns of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.) General Assembly to the United Nations. The Presbyterian U.N. Office is one way in which the church responds to Christ's call to bring good news to the poor, proclaim release to the captives and to let the oppressed go free.

The Washington Office: a public policy ministry

100 Maryland Avenue, NE
Washington, DC 20002
(202) 543-1126

The Presbyterian Washington Office is the public policy information and advocacy office of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.). Its task is to advocate for, and help the church to advocate for, the social witness perspectives and policies of the Presbyterian General Assembly. The church has a long history of applying biblically- and theologically-based insights to issues that affect the public — maintaining a public policy ministry in the nation's capital since 1946.
